Red Cross Unit Aids Injured Man

Man with Broken Ankle Found at Depot; Helped to Return Home

The latest call for the services of the Antioch Red Cross came when a couple of children reported to Herman Rosing that a man with a broken ankle was sitting on the platform of the Soo Line depot late Friday afternoon.

Rosing and Herman Holbek, members of the Antioch unit, were accompanied to the station by two members of the Kenosha unit, Arthur Cross and Ray Woodworth, who happened to be in town with their truck.

They found that the man, Barry McKay, 29, of Chicago, had hurt his ankle the night before when he caught his foot in an open switch and fell as he was walking along the tracks. He had apparently spent the night beside the tracks, undiscovered by anyone, and the next day had managed to drag himself as far as the depot.

McKay was taken to an Antioch physician who X-rayed the ankle and set it. Afterward he was removed in the Kenosha Red Cross truck to the junction of Highways 41 and 173, where a squad from the Lake county sheriff's patrol met him. The sheriff's squad took him to the Cook county line, where a Cook county patrol picked him up and escorted him to his home at 4056 Albany avenue, Chicago.

Trio Undiscouraged in Endurance Flight Plans

"We propose to fight it out on this line if it takes all the rest of the summer," might well be the motto of Lake county's endurance fliers, Homer and Edward Seavey and William Solberg, who hope to make their second attempt at an endurance flight Friday at 11 a. m., taking off near Morrison, Ill.

Homer Seavey and Solberg stayed aloft nine hours near Fox Lake last month in an effort to trim the world's non-stop record of more than 300 hours set by the Moody brothers at Springfield early in the summer.

Re-fueling difficulties brought them down, and also baffled attempts of the Seavey brothers to start flights Sept. 10 and again on Sept. 12.

They took their plane to Curtiss field for inspection by the Chicago Aviation association Tuesday. Approval of the installation of new fuel tanks was necessary before they could start their flight.

Bluff Lake Youths Save 3 From Drowning

Quick thinking and alertness on the part of two Bluff lake boys, plus a fast motor launch, were credited with the saving of three lives in Lake Marie Saturday afternoon.

The boys who figured in the rescue were Edward Knickelheim, Jr., and Allen Blakeman. They were cruising in the lake when they heard calls for help and saw three men clinging desperately to an overturned boat in the middle of the lake. They rushed to the boat and found the three men in a state of exhaustion. They were pulled into the launch and taken to the west shore. The boys did not learn the names of the men, but they said they were liberally rewarded for the rescue.

The men said the high wind and waves had caused their boat to capsize.

Antioch Aces Blank Slades Corners, 5-0

Rubber Game With Bristol Sunday Is Billed as Season's Final

Effective pitching by Bob Wells brought the Aces another victory Sunday at Slades Corners when they blanked the home team there, 5 to 0. Six errors behind the Antioch ace slabs brought no difference in the scoring, as only Steffin and Amborn of the Corners team were able to connect with anything that even remotely resembled a hit.

Next Sunday afternoon the final game of the season will be played in Antioch with the Bristol team. Each team has won a game and this will be the rubber game to decide the series.

Youth Takes "Happy" Lang's Truck for Wild Excursion

A preliminary hearing for Robert G. Holleran, 21, of Chicago, charged with the theft of a truck from Henry "Happy" Lang of Antioch and of a purse containing $21.90 from Marie McMullen of Fox Lake will be held before Justice of the Peace Harry Hoyt on Sept. 19.

Holleran was captured last Wednesday by state highway police in a radio blockade, ordered by Sheriff Thomas E. Kennedy after the purse-snatching, in a Fox Lake tavern.

After his capture, Holleran stated that he had been employed during a part of the summer at a restaurant and tavern near Milwaukee avenue and Route 173. Shortly after midnight Wednesday he got into a truck parked at the intersection by Lang and drove to Pell Lake, in Walworth county, Wis., where he broke into a cottage owned by his grandparents and obtained a purse containing $5 which belonged to his grandmother.

Driving to Fox Lake, he entered a tavern, where he remained until 10 a. m., eating and drinking. He then snatched a purse belonging to Marie McMullen of Fox Lake and fled in the truck. The purse and money were later retrieved by the police and returned to their owner.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Johnson and children, Sybil and Ronald, of Lake Catherine, will leave Saturday for Chicago, where they will spend the winter.

County Road Men "Railroaded" Into Am. Fed. Labor

"Can Join or Go Home," Says Sup. Stanton of Ingleside

Supervisor Bernard F. Naber of Antioch raised the sole dissenting voice on behalf of the workmen in opposing the wholesale and arbitrary unionization of Lake county road workers which was railroaded through by the county board of supervisors at a meeting Tuesday in Waukegan.

Without consulting the 28 men employed for road maintenance and construction by the county, by a vote of 22-1 the supervisors ordered the acceptance of working agreements with the Hod Carriers, Building and Common Labor union, Local 301, and the Operating Engineers, local 150, American Federation of Labor affiliates, for the period from Oct. 1, 1939, to Jan. 1, 1941.

Naber's was the only dissenting vote. Opposing the "unionization without representation" of the county road men, he inquired, "What will the workers say?"

Who IS Boss?

"Who is boss?" Supervisor Frank Stanton of Ingleside is reported as asking, "the county board or those who are employed by the county? The minute we sign these agreements they will all join the union. If they don't want to join, let them go home."

Mr. Stanton apparently forgot, it has been pointed out by persons commenting on his remarks, that around election time it is the sovereign voter who is "boss."

In illustration of this point an old story was called to mind concerning the pompous official whose escort, attempting to force a passage for him through a large crowd, was arrogantly shouting "Make way! Make way for the servant of the people!" Whereupon some wit in the crowd coolly replied, "Make way yourself. We are the people."

Naber Gives Reasons

In response to an inquiry from the Antioch News, Naber gave as his reasons for voting against the measure the following:

"I don't think the working men were consulted in this matter. I think the men were perfectly satisfied with the wages they were receiving and the hours they had to work. I felt that the matter of unionization was being forced on them."

"I believe it's going to cost more money."

"I don't think that the federal government forces its employees into unions; nor do I believe the state does, but the county has. I don't see where it's going to benefit the men."

"If the men themselves had asked for a union, I would have felt that was an entirely different matter."

"I am quite sure that some of the other members felt somewhat the same as I did about the whole thing, although they hesitated to oppose it."

"Joining" Mandatory

Under the agreement as passed by the supervisors, all men hired by the county board for maintenance and construction work on gravel roads have to be members in good standing of the AFL unions, or must be willing to join the unions.

According to information secured from R. M. Lobdell, county superintendent of highways, an initiation fee of $35 would be charged for tractor engineers, of whom there are 7 employed on the highways. This would amount to $245. Truck drivers, of whom there are 8, would be charged a $30 initiation fee, totaling $240. The 13 laborers would be required to pay $25 for each initiation fee, amounting to $325.

This would make a total of $810 in initiation fees alone.

In addition, yearly dues would be: 7 tractor engineers, $36 each, $252; 8 truckers, $30 each, $240; 13 laborers, $24 each, $312. Total, $804.

Taxpayer Pays?

This would mean that a total cost of $1614 would have to be paid by the workers and, in the final analysis, by the taxpayer, directly or indirectly.

The cost to the workers would be met in part, for them, by varying increases in wages.

This increase would in turn, according to Supervisor O. J. Boehm of Libertyville, who voted for the unionization, result in an increase of about 10% in the construction and maintenance costs to the county.

This would be an increase of considerably more than 10% in the cost of labor, since the total cost is presumed (continued on page 8)

Thanksgiving

Now that Franklin D. Roosevelt has moved Thanksgiving Day a week earlier than set on the calendar—because it comes too close to Christmas—the question arises as to the step he might take in regard to Armistice Day, November 11. Then follows New Year's Day, a week after Christmas. Washington's birthday comes February 22, Memorial Day is May 30, Flag Day is June 14, Independence Day is July 4, and Labor Day is September 2. Some of these are fixed by statute, but to Mr. Roosevelt an obstacle like a statute is only a small technicality to be dealt with in a manner much as swatting a pesky fly.

The president claims that by moving Thanksgiving a week ahead merchants are given one week longer to enjoy Christmas business. This suggests a thought: Why not move the threat of competition from private industry and encourage it to expand and provide more jobs for the people at real wages so that they will be able to buy more things for Christmas? Wouldn't that be a better way to help the merchants?

Really the change of date has many possibilities. If the president wants to do some real beneficial changing why doesn't he move the advent of spring up to February 21 and give us a month less of winter?

Idea of the week—Mr. Roosevelt consolidates all holidays into one and proclaims them to be observed on his birthday.

Maybe Joe Is Right

The average American has the reputation in some circles of being too cocky—of thinking he's a lot more important than he really is when you consider his position in the general scheme of things.

Joe Z., who comes close to being the average American himself, has his own opinion on this particular subject. Let's listen in on Joe for a moment:

P. M. A. Picnic

Two hundred persons enjoyed an outdoor picnic dinner at the Mutz brothers farm east of Wilmot Sunday. The officials of Local No. 6 of Wilmot for many years died very

"So you think I take myself too seriously? You think my job, for instance, isn't important enough to justify my acting this way?"

"Well, maybe you're right. I said MAYBE. Of course I don't have the best job in this plant. But what I do is important just the same. Here's the way I look at it."

"I've got a job, a self-respecting one that means I can support my family and that means I have the chance of getting a better job if I have the stuff. And it's a job in the United States of America. Makes a man feel important just to be an American these days—to know his position in life doesn't depend on his race or creed or the way he ties his necktie. We Americans have the shortest hours and the highest pay for what we do in the whole world, and we buy the best products in the world with the money we earn. We know how good those products are; you and I provide the skill that makes them."

"Why shouldn't I feel important? I'm an American workman, ain't I?"

Maybe Joe Z. has an idea there that's worth remembering!

A Tribute to Industry

A recent interview with Dr. Victor G. Heiser, world famous health authority and author, makes interesting and pleasant reading for those who believe industry in this country has made tremendous progress along many lines besides the mere marketing and servicing of goods.

Dr. Heiser, who was being interviewed in his capacity as consultant to the Committee on Healthful Working Conditions of the National Association of Manufacturers, said that the first conclusion he had come to was that most of the Committee's work would be in other fields than that of healthful working conditions. And the reason that he gave was an encouraging one; he said that most of American industry had done such a good job of its own in wiping out industrial hazards and cutting down plant accidents.

So Dr. Heiser's Committee is going to concentrate its efforts on helping public health agencies to curb non-occupational diseases and spread education on diet, for they have found that 9 out of 10 absences from factory work may be traced to these sources.

And there's another tribute to the high and constructive standards of modern American industry!

suddenly with a heart attack while working in the Herman Hasselman silo shortly after noon, on Monday.

Mr. Frank was born in Germany July 5, 1888, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm Frank. In 1895 they emigrated to this country and he spent the next few years on English Prairie. He was educated in the schools there and at Wilmot, after the family moved into Wisconsin.

On September 13, 1923 he was married to Mrs. Olga Kanis, Holtdorf, who with four step-children survives him. They are Mrs. Walter Frank, Twin Lakes, Mrs. Ruth Prochnow, Des Plaines, Lloyd and Louis Holtdorf, Antioch and Waukegan.

Other survivors are his aged father, Wilhelm Frank, his brothers, Charles, Wilmot; Gus of Salem; Herman of Wilmot; and his sisters, Mrs. Lizzie Ehlert, Wilmot; Mrs. Millie Rush, Richmond; Mrs. Minnie Stoffel, of Chicago.

Funeral services were held this (Thursday) afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Peace Lutheran church, with burial in Wilmot cemetery.

Mrs. Mary Larsen, mother of Mrs. Oscar Douglas, passed away last Saturday at St. Therese hospital after an illness of more than two years, a great deal of the time in the hospital. She lived with her daughter here before entering the hospital. She was born 76 years ago in Copenhagen, Denmark, and came in early life to Lake County, Illinois, where she and her husband lived for many years and reared their family of eight children, one of whom, Elmer, passed away several years ago. Besides Mrs. Douglas, she leaves three other daughters, Mrs. S. Kofstad of Waukegan, Mrs. Horace Kick of Libertyville and Mrs. Alvina Duke of Fort Worth, Texas, also two sons, Edward of Kenosha and Arthur of S. Milwaukee. The funeral was held Monday from the Holland Funeral home in Waukegan and burial took place in Millburn.

Slowly but surely the facts on the Libertyville fair are cropping out. A Waukegan paper comes out with the following editorially—"Lake County folks would like to have

It might be well for Gen. Dawes to take a "tip" from the engine crew of the train that carried him and his family through Omaha one night last week. Dawes apparently got "in bad" with the engineer and fireman because he did not follow the example of Roosevelt and McKinley. W. M. Osborn, engineer of the train, and L. Deacon, fireman, said they "got no special thrill out of having such a prominent passenger." Reminded that Gen. Dawes did not shake hands with the engineer, Osborn said, "No, he didn't, and you can tell him I said so if you see him. Roosevelt used to do it and McKinley did it. The boys liked it."

MICAH: A MESSENGER OF SOCIAL JUSTICE

LESSON TEXT—Micah 3:1-12; 6:8.
GOLDEN TEXT—What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?—Micah 6:8.

We demand human rights, social justice, and economic security. Corrupt judges and bribe-taking officials must be put out of office. Landlords must not squeeze every penny out of their tenants; loan sharks must be put out of business; the rich must not oppress the poor. The Church must have ministers with a real message and must share in the solution of the problems of humanity.

No, we did not copy that paragraph out of today's newspaper. It is the message that the prophet Micah preached more than 2,500 years ago. And what's more, he not only presented theories, but he knew how to accomplish his purpose of real social justice. It is time some of those who talk about this subject got back to the Bible and really learned how it can be done.

I. Social Injustice (3:1-10).
The inhumanity of man toward man is not something that just happened. There are fundamental reasons for such conditions, and they are the same in our time as in Micah's day. The responsibility rests squarely on the failure of our national and spiritual leaders to perform their God-given tasks.

1. Rulers without Judgment (3:1-4, 9-10).

The obligation of anyone who is given or who seeks public office is to know judgment. This does not mean only that he is to have a general knowledge of the law and its technicalities; he is to know justice in his very heart, to love it, and to see that it is always rightly administered.

The leaders of Israel had woefully failed. In fact had deliberately departed from the standards of God, and Micah exposed them in plain, dramatic, well-spoken words. While verses 2 and 3 are not to be taken literally, they do in striking figurative speech describe just what unscrupulous politicians do to an unsuspecting people.

2. Prophets with a False Message (3:5-8).

In such a day might one not expect God's messengers to have a word of condemnation for the leaders and of comfort for the people? Not only did they keep quiet about the sin and corruption which they saw about them; but they actually encouraged their prominent and wealthy "church members" in their sin by saying, "All is well." Such religious leaders have not altogether perished from the earth.

Let ministers of God be like Micah, who is described in verse 8 as a man of judgment and justice, because he was "full of power by the Spirit of the Lord."

II. Social Security (3:11, 12; 6:8-9).

No; that idea was not discovered by the politicians of the 1930's. It has been in the plan of God from the beginning; in fact only in Him is there any real national, personal, or social security. Micah skillfully unmasked false security and revealed the way of true security.

1. False Security and Divine Judgment (3:11, 12).

When the heads of a nation "judge for reward" and its religious leaders "teach for hire" and its prophets "divine for money" (v. 11), there is no use to talk plausibly about God being with us.

The prophecy of verse 12 was fulfilled three times—by the Chaldeans in 500 B. C., by Titus in A. D. 70, and under Hadrian in A. D. 135. God always keeps His promises, even if the promise be a promise of judgment.

2. True Security and Divine Blessing (6:8-9).

God is not to be propitiated by the offerings of material things as a sacrifice or by any outward profession of piety. He looks at the heart.

Verse 8 is a remarkable and beautiful epitome of God's requirement of man; namely, justice, kindness, and humility; but note that this is the requirement of the law, and one which no man can possibly fulfill apart from Christ. It is evident folly for men to quote this verse as did the agnostic Thomas Huxley and others, to justify themselves for not responding to the claims of the gospel of Christ. Only Christ can make any man capable of true justice, constant kindness, and genuine humility. Only thus can we meet the demands of the law of God.

Real social justice and security will come only as there is a recognition of Jesus Christ as Saviour and Lord by the leaders, by the prophets and by the people:

Self Abnegation

After you have been kind, after love has stolen forth into the world and done its beautiful work, go back into the shade again and say nothing about it. Love hides even from itself. Love waives even self-satisfaction.—Henry Drummond.

Black Hills Man Tells the Story of Wild Bill's End

Pioneer Relates True Tale Of Murder of Famed Western Marshal.

COALINGA, CALIF.—John Taylor, pioneer resident of the Black Hills, who recalls the shooting of Wild Bill Hickok, famous two-gun frontier marshal, as clearly as if it had happened yesterday, is thinking of settling down now that he has reached the age of 68.

Still an active real-estate operator, Taylor has a clear memory of the historic events in which he took part during a lifetime spent in frontier settlements. His friends say he can dive from the high spring-board as well as the average youth of 20.

The most interesting of his many stories is the tale of the shooting of Wild Bill Hickok, whose feats are part of the Wild West of tradition and fiction. In Leadville, S. D.

Quarrel Led to Killing.

While Hickok sat in a saloon playing poker and Taylor stood talking to his friend, Tim Brady, on a nearby street corner, Jack McCall, a miner, entered the bar and shot Wild Bill. The two men had quarreled over a gambling debt.

A moment later McCall, gun in hand, came running down the street to where his horse was fastened to a hitching post only a few feet from Taylor and Brady. A loose cinch and a slipping saddle prevented him from getting on the animal.

With Taylor, Brady, the bartender and saloon frequenters in pursuit, McCall ran on down the street. His pursuers cornered him in a grocery in the next block and, for want of a jail, held him prisoner there until his trial the next day.

Taylor said he and others placed the body of Hickok on a door and carried it away for burial. The next day Taylor sat in the rodeo log theater while McCall was tried by a jury of miners without benefit of a judge. The miner was acquitted when the jury could not agree, but, taken into custody a month later, he was tried and sentenced to death by a judge in Yankton.

Knew Calamity Jane.

Taylor's first contact with Calamity Jane, famous frontier dance hall hostess who later became his close friend, was in a Custer City bathhouse. He was in a tub in one room while Jane and a woman companion were bathing in an adjoining compartment. Through the thin wood partition, he said, floated some of the most colorful profanity he had ever heard.

Taylor was in Philadelphia when he joined a band of adventurous men who were among the first to enter the Black Hills territory. When on December 29, 1895, Custer City was founded, he was named on a committee to stake out its boundaries. The group did the work with tape line and stakes.

Elected coroner of Custer City, Taylor was the first man to hold that job in the Black Hills. He was a friend of Poker Annie, cigar-smoking woman gambler, and the Dalton brothers, notorious stage coach robbers. In New Mexico territory he played cards with Billy the Kid shortly before the Kid was involved in a war between sheepmen and cattlemen and became an outlaw.

Patience Rewards Judge;

Old Bill for $200 Is Paid

FORT WAYNE, IND.—The day was hot and the receivership report being read by J. Robert Newkirk to Judge Harry H. Hilgemann was long and boring.

Twice Judge Hilgemann interrupted to point out that he would be forced to reread it all when he retired to his chambers. Couldn't formality be done away with, he asked.

"Just a few more pages," Newkirk answered, so the judge settled back in a half-listening mood. Suddenly he cocked his ear.

"To one Harry H. Hilgemann, a member of the Allen county bar, for legal services, $200," droned Newkirk.

"I suppose you want the court to check off that 10-year-old bill, too," the judge interrupted. "I'd forgotten all about it."

"No, Your Honor. This outfit has made a comeback. We have the money and here's your check."

Eels on Fish Ladders

Are Snared by Indians

LEWISTON, IDAHO.—Indians in this district got a rich harvest of eels at the Clearwater River dam during the salmon run this spring and early summer.

The eels were caught with nets when they attempted to climb the fish ladders at the dam. Indians came with gunnysacks and went back to their tepees with all the eels they could carry.

The Indians consider fried or roast eels a real delicacy.

Conelose Report

DES MOINES, IOWA.—A police radio squad, armed with sawed-off shotguns, their car siren screaming, rushed to the rescue of an east side community reportedly terrorized by a mad dog. The crew reported back to headquarters by radio: "Dog not mad. Dog hungry. Owner will feed."

Paving on Highway 41 "Settles" in Marshy Spots

The problem of what to do about Skokie Highway (U. S. highway 41) is bothering the state road commissioners right now.

Some of the paving, constructed over the marshy lowlands of the Skokie valley, is "settling" deeper than its established grade.

Workmen have been assigned to carry out test jobs on different sections of the paving with a view to trying out methods of maintaining its proper level, and their probable cost. Among the methods being considered is that of the "mud jack," by which mud is pumped beneath the paving.

Handsomeness Woolens Mark Fall Styles

New Costume Suits Stress Color Perfection.

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The artistry with which designers are matching, combining or contrasting color in the now-so-fashionable costume suit is simply amazing. Perhaps the tribute belongs to the fabric producers who have outdone themselves in the matter of materials, particularly the handsome woolens that are so richly colorful. At any rate color is being consistently correlated throughout the entire scheme of fashion, a costume becomes a glorified color unit.

A glowing example of color perfection that might be cited is the costume suit that graced a recent style showing. It was made of moss green tweed for the skirt and long swagger coat. The jacket underneath carried on the same green with an intermingling of violet and radiant dahlia-red tones in a heathery mixture so beautiful, only seeing is believing. The charm of such a perfected color study may well be imagined and it goes to show what emphasis is being placed on color finesse in the style program.

Another element that enters into the color glory of the new fall ensembles is that of carefully selected accessories. The fact that so many of the new woolens achieve a multi-color blend offers endless possibilities in selecting accessories that will give a new aspect to the costume with every changing color mood of the jewelry and gloves and handbags and millinery worn. To be smartly costumed this season fashion demands that you become color sensitive to a high degree—a task made easy in the concerted action among fabricists, milliners, jewelers, glove manufacturers, in fact fashion specialists in every line has resulted in an educational program which is placing color artistry in costume design on a high plane challenging followers to use discriminating taste in their selections.

Terry Pin's Tips on AN EVENING AT HOME

By FREDERIC A. BIRMINGHAM

Consolidated News Features, Inc.—WNU Service.

Man's home is his castle. Very few wives, however, would rather have a drawbridge than a front door.

The pitter-patter of tiny feet enlivens many a home, particularly if the tiny feet belong to a family of mice.

After dinner, wives tell their husbands everything that went on at home during the day. Husbands find this so interesting that they frequently have to read the evening paper at the same time to keep from being over-excited.

Movies are very entertaining.

Helium and Oxygen

The introduction of helium mixed with oxygen as a therapeutic gas was reported by Barach in 1934. Because of its physical property and lightness, being one-seventh as heavy as nitrogen, the gas mixture of 21 per cent oxygen and 79 per cent helium may be moved through constricted orifices at a pressure approximately one-half that required for air or nitrogen-oxygen mixtures. Patients with severe asthma have been treated by inhalation of helium-oxygen mixtures with a favorable outcome in a large percentage of cases.

The Observer

We see by the papers that—
Al Litchfield of Libertyville plans to enter his 1903 Brush automobile in the big parade at the American Legion's national convention in Chicago, Sept. 25. The car, a one-cylinder chain drive model with a 7-horsepower motor and a maximum speed of 15 miles an hour, is believed to be the only one of the original 30 still in existence. It was the first automobile designed for the U. S. mail service, and was one of the original left-hand drive autos.

Mrs. Henry Craver of Wheatland was champion cook at the women's fair held in connection with the plowing matches.

Those champion plow-pushers probably needed champion cooks to feed them when they got through with their contest, too.

One of the principal reasons for the success achieved by the thieves was undoubtedly their forethought in providing themselves with Gaillard batteries, of incontestable efficiency."

Mine Lost for Years Believed Found in Idaho

Partners Fight, Survivor Is Unable to Locate the Diggings Later.

MOSCOW, IDAHO.—A legendary hole-of-fortune—the lost Wheelbarrow mine—is believed to have been discovered at last on a brush-covered slope of Gold hill in the Panhandle of Idaho.

A story relayed from person to person the last several decades told of a mine that yielded $20,000 in gold before the two partners who operated it quarreled, and one left the other for dead to return years later, only to find he was unable to find the diggings.

Finally the remaining partner died—his search still futile. Behind he left the story of the mine he said could be identified through the wheelbarrow and pots and pans it contained. As time went on and the tale circulated, it became known as the Wheelbarrow mine.

In June, workers of the Filsum Mining company, north of Pollatch, found the weed-grown entrance of an abandoned mine. Curious, they dug out the front. Thirty feet into the mine was the remains of an old wheelbarrow, its whisky barrel staves crumbling to the touch.

Human Bone Found.

But perhaps more important was the discovery of what officials of the company said was a bone—part of a human backbone. Also, lying on the wheelbarrow were several pieces of gold-bearing quartz.

The company plans to build a road into the mine and re-timber it to determine whether it is the lost digging from which $20,000 in ore was taken more than a half century ago.

A pioneer of the Palouse country, W. H. McGahan of Troy, knows the legend of the lost mine well. In 1903 McGahan met an old-time miner named Casper, who assertedly was the surviving partner. As McGahan tells it, this is the story Casper related to him:

"My partner and I packed into the district from Walla Walla, Wash., the closest town in the early days.

"We worked over the different mountains around Moscow and opened up a rich vein of gold-bearing ore. We crushed the rock by hand and panned the gold. As Indians still roamed the district, we lived in the mine.

"After taking out $20,000 in small nuggets and dust, we prepared to return to civilization.

"Getting ready to leave, we quarreled. I struck my partner with a pick, took the gold and left, believing I had killed him. I went down to California, lost most of my money and then came back to Portland. There, I heard that my partner had not died.

"Twenty years had passed, but I thought I could find the mine again. However, the shrubbery and trees had grown up and I was completely lost. I remembered the mine was on the south slope of a mountain and inside of it was a wheelbarrow and pots and pans."

McGahan said Casper spent a year looking for the mine before he died. The fact Casper returned to this territory voluntarily and was convinced the wheelbarrow and cooking utensils would be found in the mine made McGahan believe Casper's partner died in the tunnel.

'Don'ts' Ruled Lives of Students Back in 1839

SHREVEPORT, LA.—The rules of the last century's colleges were dominated by "don'ts." Centenary college records of 1839 contain the following commands:

"No student shall be permitted to carry a dirk, sword, cane or any deadly weapon whatsoever. "The hours of study shall be from sun rising until breakfast, from eight o'clock to Meridian, from two o'clock to five o'clock in the afternoon, and from twilight until bedtime in the evening. During the hours of study, every student shall keep his room, unless called from it to recite, or by some urgent necessity of which later he shall always be ready to give an account to any officer of the college who may observe his absence. "No student shall absent himself from his room after twilight."

KILMORE, AUSTRALIA.—The traditional virtues of the bee got a bad jolt here when a number of young men camping nearby found their camp becoming infested with drowsy bees. Investigation developed that the bees, not finding water and vegetation sufficiently plentiful, had quenched their thirst among the beer bottles stacked about the camp. Becoming intoxicated, they were unable to return to their hives.

Flag Sizes

The executive order which establishes the proportion and sizes of the United States flag calls for 12 different hoists ranging from 1.31 to 20 feet. The hoist is the width or short dimension of the flag. For use on a private or public building other than one in an army or navy post any convenient size may be used. For a 30-foot pole on a tall building a flag with a hoist of 10 feet would be about right. This corresponds to the post flag of the army.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Special Congressional Session Expected to Halt War Profits; Housewife Feels Price Boost

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE ON RAMPAGE
The President's "moral" obligation was forgotten.

BUSINESS: War Babies

"No American has the moral right to profiteer at the expense of either his fellow citizens or of the men, women and children who are living and dying in the midst of war in Europe."

The U. S. had two days to ponder this Presidential warning before the markets opened after a Labor day week-end. If pondering means forgetting, the nation did it well. Tickers ran three minutes behind as "war babies" zoomed 5 to 15 or more points. When it was over, 5,930,000 shares had changed hands and the value of listings at New York alone had upped some $3,000,000,000. Next day the market straightened out.

Grains were no exception, jumping to their pegged limits each day. So stagnated was the futures market that milling business practically came to a stop when processors refused to sell flour without being able to buy in their hedges against the cash wheat they needed. Finally the Chicago board of trade doubled the daily price limits and upped initial margin requirements. Meat followed the trend. Hogs soared from 50 to 75 cents as the market opened, jumping another $1 the next day.

The net result soon sifted down to Mrs. Housewife, whose meat, butter, eggs and flour went skyrocketing despite government-held surpluses of most commodities. Off to the White House with this news went Attorney-General Frank Murphy, gunning for the well-remembered devil of World war days, "High Cost Living." He went back to his office with the President's blessing and an order to find ways of outsmarting the speculators, but Frank Murphy's job was not easy.

A search of his statutes would show the attorney-general he had few laws to fall back on.

FRANK MURPHY
... found no laws.

Hence the wisecracks thought Mr. Murphy would spend the next few weeks drafting legislation which the President could offer a special congressional session. That would be smart politics, because Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace is doing his best to keep farmers from speculating with larger crops next year. If the glove fits agriculture, it also fits business.

Though ambitious profiteers thought the President had left a loophole in neutrality by exempting Canada (which has not gone to war), Secretary of State Cordell Hull soon bashed this hope in the head. The U. S. might sell arms to Canada for transshipment to the allies, except for one sentence in the neutrality act: "It shall be unlawful to export . . . arms, ammunition or implements of war . . . to any neutral state for transshipment to, or for the use of, any . . . belligerent nation." Next question: How can this ruling be enforced?

THE WAR: Speculation

As the War of 1939 got well underway, censorship's lid clamped itself over everything save the vague official communiques from London, Paris, Berlin and Warsaw. Conversely, the propaganda mills ground faster than ever. By adding to communiques and subtracting from propaganda, observers could ascertain a few things. The gist: France, Britain and Poland were in a tough spot.

The key to this problem lay somewhere in Poland. Defending troops rushed back to the Vistula and Bug rivers (See Map) where they hoped to dig in permanently. Though Generalissimo Smigly-Rydz called the retreat "strategic," there was every indication Poland's position was desperate. Off to London seeking aid went Foreign Minister Josef Beck, knowing full well there was no way Britain and France could send it.

To a certain point Der Fuehrer's scheme was obvious. The Reich made no offensive on the western front, where British-French forces found the lightly manned Siegfried line a stone wall. But when he has mopped up in Poland, Herr Hitler can decide on one of two courses, war or peace. If he makes war, the combined armies of Britain and France will have tough sledding against a Nazi juggernaut which has no problem of back-door vulnerability. From over its new common border with Russia could come all the economic help Germany needs.

But observers saw another possible reason for Hitler's apparent lack of interest in the western front. Having no military objectives there, having failed to declare war against Britain and France, he might turn about and sue for immediate peace on the stipulation that Poland shall be incorporated into the Reich.

Actualities

Aside from Poland's retreat, aside from German apathy on the western front, the War of 1939 followed tradition. On the propaganda front, Berlin issued a "white book" replying to Britain's "white paper," recounting pre-war Anglo-German relations and placing responsibility on England. Faced with continued merchant marine warfare, both France and Britain established import control systems to conserve foreign exchange and provide shipping space for war necessities.

Most vital, however, was the time-tested plan whereby the United Kingdom hopes to starve Germany into submission. Thrown around western exits of the Baltic sea was the impregnable naval blockade which only Britain could muster. Meanwhile the unique ministry of economic warfare hoped to make British pounds, shillings and pence an equally potent weapon.

Question Mark

Most observers agree that Italy's current non-participation resulted not because Hitler waived his treaty, but from deliberate intention. Though Rome declared its neutrality, removed air raid shelters and resumed oceanic shipping, there was method in this madness for both Hitler and Mussolini. For Hitler, Italy was not only a threat against democracies, but also a potential source of supplies should all other paths be cut off. For Mussolini, it was smart to watch developments: Seeing in Der Fuehrer a potential threat to his Mediterranean domination, Il Duce is willing to join whichever side he thinks will win.

ASIDE FROM WAR

While war and its repercussions held U. S. interest 100 per cent, the following noteworthy events drew little attention:

IN BALTIMORE—Twenty-six-year-old Mrs. Harold Ickes, wife of the 65-year-old interior secretary, presented her husband with a baby boy.

IN CLEVELAND—Col. Roscoe Turner, veteran aviator, sped 282 miles per hour to win the Thompson trophy the third successive time, thus winning $10,000. Then he announced retirement from the air racing business.

IN NEWARK—Elisha Waterman, executive vice president of the fountain pen company, was beaten by C. I. O. pickets as he tried to enter the plant.

IN NEW YORK—Willys-Overland claimed it was dropping a "bombshell" into the automobile field with an unprecedented new low price car for 1940.

PAN AMERICA: Solidarity

Hemispherically, the Americas constitute an economic unity which can operate independently of war-crazy Europe. But in peacetime the Old World's rich nations dangle tempting trade offers before the tiny lands of Central and South America, wooing them away from the more logical north-and-south commercial channels. When war again engulfs Europe, the rich suitors forget their temporary New World friends, who invariably turn once more to the U. S. for leadership.

No exception to this rule is the War of 1939, which finds Argentina cut off from her German-Italian trade sources by a British blockade, and finds Mexico's expropriated oil program at a standstill because Germany can no longer cross the sea.

Not unexpected, therefore, was the call which went forth from tiny Panama republic a few days after war was declared. Would the 21 American nations attend a conference to preserve western hemisphere peace?

Plainly visible behind scenes was the fast-moving hand of the U. S., which could use Pan-American solidarity to good advantage. Europe can no longer supply the needs of South America, nor can America supply the needs of Europe under neutrality restrictions. But everyone—including newly handcuffed American exporters—would be happy to open up new markets in the other Americas and thus keep U. S. production at normal.

DOMESTIC:

Un-Americanism

Fully stolen by Europe's war is the news spotlight which Washington's election-bound investigation committees hoped to enjoy this summer. But early September brought one witness before Rep. Martin Dies' un-Americanism committee who broke through the barrage from abroad to win prominent place in the week's press. The witness: Earl Browder, general secretary of the U. S. Communist party and its presidential candidate in 1936.

Interesting to committeemen were the revelations that (1) Communist Browder has traveled abroad the past two years on a false passport; (2) his assertion that Communists work with every group seeking to improve U. S. economic conditions; (3) his apparently contradictory admission that if the present economic system worked effectively there would be no place for the Communist party.

COMMUNIST BROWDER
"I only indorsed his policies."

Biggest news, however, was something which might—if substantiated—make the Republican party blush. In 1936, said the witness, a man named "Davidson" had approached him as representing seven wealthy Republicans who were willing to give the Communist party $250,000 to nominate President Roosevelt as its presidential candidate. When "Davidson" heard that information about the offer had been passed on to the Democratic national committee, the offer was withdrawn and "Davidson" disappeared.

If this embarrassed Republicans, their Democratic opponents were also reddened. Communist Browder denied he had endorsed President Roosevelt in 1936. Then he explained why: "I carefully refrained because I knew the Republicans wanted me to do it. I only indorsed his (Roosevelt's) policies."

Black or Print Jersey Frock Is Ideal for Immediate Wear

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

ABOUT the grandest thing that has happened in the land of fashion is the dress of either silk, rayon or wool jersey. In the rayon jerseys that are printed in discreet patterns the career girl who must live a studio or office life has met her ideal. These new dot-patterned or striped suave sleek jersey frocks have a way of laying siege to your heart the moment you see them. And what's best of all they "improve on acquaintance," when you discover how slenderizing they are to the figure and how they give you the well-dressed appearance all through the active hours of the day.

Note the three jersey frocks in the picture. Choose the one you like best and then confide in your dealer that you feel the urge for a jersey frock stirring within and forthwith you will be shown a collection of jersey dresses, each and every one of which will impress you with its charm and chic.

The frock centered in the picture is a refined and fetching model, the kind that will grace office, schoolroom and studio to perfection. This dress is made of black crush-proof (emphasis on crush-proof) black rayon jersey printed in white pin dots. This model is charming in wine or dark green with white dot print. The trimming is white pique and the smart hat is of black satin. Wear this frock and you will be graciously gownned for any daytime occasion.

Very popular this season is polka dots overprinted on checks. Can you conceive of a more intriguing dot-on-check print than a black smooth lustrous rayon jersey patterned in black and white check, splashed with huge duobonnet red polka dots as pictured to the left in the illustration? Just such eye-appealing effects can be had in a long list of color combinations. The dress buttons from neckline to hem. A crushed black patent waistbinder adds the touch supreme from the sartorial standpoint.

Something new in a fall afternoon frock is pictured to the right. The skirt is a 1939 fashion favorite. It is of soot-black silk jersey fashioned according to the latest, which calls for lots and lots of flare about the hemline with snug-fitted hips. In sleek jersey such as this designers have discovered a fabric of matchless draping qualities that performs miracles in the way of slenderizing the figure. Striped white jersey is used for the top given a diagonal treatment.

The emphasis placed on the all-black frock as a fashion "first," for fall leave no alternative to the woman who would be well dressed. A classic black this season becomes an essential. Why not a black silk or rayon jersey? The gown of draped or shirred black silk jersey will prove "a thing of beauty and a joy forever" all through the fall months and on into the winter to wear under your fur coat.

With it you wear, if you are fashion-wise, massive gold jewelry preferably one of the gorgeous gold bib necklaces some of which are resplendent with colored stone settings. These necklaces are so wide they remind of deep yokes. And keep in mind there must always be added a matching gold bracelet. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Modish Black

The new blacks impress with their striking smartness. The chic of a black costume such as centers the style stage at present depends upon the sophisticated simplicity of its styling. Spongy black wool crepe has been used for the jacket dress pictured. The skirt which flares in latest approved manner is topped with a pert youthful double-breasted jacket which accents the new brief waistline length. The vestee of white crepe shows a tucked front and Peter Pan collar.

Unrelieved Black Fashion's Latest

Black unrelieved, save for a dash of bizarre jewelry, is being carried out by those who go in for extremes in striking ways. For instance, with a dull black crepe dress a noted Paris couturier partners a lustrous black satin blouse, adding a tall hat with drape-manipulated towering crown of matching satin. The handbag is also of satin. The effect is stunning.

Reversing the order of things with a lustrous silk jersey frock, smart accessories worn include hat, bag, shoes and gloves of soot black on-telope, gorgeous gold jewelry highlighting the ensemble.

Many of the new sheer black wools are being trimmed with black velvet for collar and other details. Of course, the logical hat to wear must also be of black velvet.

Black sequins glitter on evening gowns of dull blacks in a blaze of glory. French designers are using quantities of black passementerie and braiding on black fabric giving an air of elegance that bespeaks a new dignity in fashions for the coming months.

Massive Jewelry Is Current Style

Jewelry is playing a tremendous part in current fashion. The trend is toward massive gold and jeweled necklaces and bracelets, which, worn with the new black gowns that make simplicity their theme, is startlingly effective.

Size is all-important in necklaces. The deep collar types are in the lead. In other items of jewelry the idea of size also is stressed. Brooches are very large as also are earrings and clips.

Bustle Dress Now Fashion Interest

Inspiration Is Taken From
Modes of the '80's.

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The versatility and resourcefulness with which designers are handling the bustle theme calls for admiration. While the bustle mode, so important this season, gets its inspiration from the modes of the way-back-when eighties, the interpretation given it by contemporary style creators modernizes the theme to the liking and acceptance of the most exacting and conservative followers of fashion.

To enumerate the endless ways in which designers are handling the situation is scarcely possible. The story is best covered in stating that the new styling calls for back fullness achieved by clever manipulation in the way of gathering at the waistline. Inseting fan-shaped pleats, adding peplum flares and perhaps the most popular and simplest method is the sash bow at the back. And here's good news in regard to the bustle bow, you can buy dresses with detachable bustle bows. Also, bustle bows are selling at the ribbon counters.

The smartest dress at the moment is the black gown that is styled with a bustle silhouette which may be as restrained as most discriminating taste demands, rendering it perfectly practical for general wear.

New Glove Ideas

When you see designful stitching in highly decorative mood in place of the usual conventional three-row effects down the back of a glove, know then that it's "new." Shown at the top is an attractive half-in-half glove (kaywool for the palm to give warmth without bulk, capeskin for the backs for grace and form) designed by Nataseha. Note the attractive diagonal stitching on the capeskin back. The shoe influence is also reflected in a new glove this season. See below in the picture a combination of kaysuede and capeskin, the two joined with smart lacing through metal eyelets, matching the oxfords that companion with the gloves.

Style Notes

Sleeves are longer. Jewelry is of massive heirloom type.

Costume suit is of outstanding importance.

Bustle-back hat is latest millinery news.

Long fur stoles is prospect for fall and winter.

Smart sweaters have detachable angora collars.

Back fullness gives new look to "dressmaker" coats.

Quills on the new hats are huge and are mounted high.

Wear a blouse of striped satin with the new black suit.

Winter Skirts to Be Widely Flared

Hips won their way to freedom in showings of new winter styles in Paris.

Dresses and coats were hip shirred and there were velvet day suits designed with flared skirts.

The much-heralded tight skirts so far have failed to materialize.

Widely flared evening skirts appeared in stiff, outstanding satins, tulles, and laces. Many were gold embroidered or spangled in vine and leaf designs.

The dahlia was the keynote of Chanel's collection. Dahlia pinks, purples, and reds predominated. This flower design was used to trim shoulders of evening dresses and jeweled clips were worn in dahlia form.

Historical Prints

History presented in a painless manner seems to have been the motive of a New York designer in a new series of early American prints for school clothes.

British Plane Has 3,240 Mile Range

Seven-Year Development Is Behind Huge Bomber.

LONDON.—Bombers capable of carrying a war-load from a London airfield to any point in Europe except the eastern half of European Russia and of returning to their starting point without intermediate landing are in large production for the British royal air force.

Alongside the Brooklands automobile race track stands a factory expanded to many times its former productive capacity and fully equipped with the most modern plant and machinery, which is given over to manufacture of the Vickers-Wellington twin-engine monoplane, a craft of "geodetic" construction credited by the air ministry with a range in still air, carrying military load, of 3,240 miles.

Substantial numbers of these formidable planes are already in service, and rate of output is constantly accelerated.

The Wellington is the second "all geodetic" plane to go into mass production. Invented by B. N. Wallis, and developed by him in conjunction with the Vickers company over the past seven years, geodetic construction is aimed to reduce structural weight without loss of strength.

Performance of the Wellington bomber, which is powered with two Bristol Pegasus XVIII two-speed supercharger air-cooled radial engines, includes maximum speed in level flight of 285 miles an hour at a height of 17,000 feet, according to new figures just revealed by the air ministry.

Later models, Wellington II and III, have more powerful engines, and their performance in some respects is considerably better.

Plan to Make Shrine of

Jefferson Davis Home

BILOXI, MISS.—Loyal Mississippi Sons of Confederate Veterans are working on plans to turn Beauvoir, gulf coast home of Jefferson Davis, into a shrine they hope will be the Mount Vernon of the South.

Surrounded by oaks, cedars and magnolias, the old building, which for years has been used as a home for veterans and widows of the Civil war, is situated near Biloxi on the long highway bordering the gulf.

As there are only a few veterans and widows left, Mississippi wants to dispense with the cost of the upkeep of the place, and Gov. Hugh White has promised the Loyal Sons he would aid them in making the place a shrine for the South.

The building was bought by Davis in 1879. He started his book, "The Rise and Fall of the Confederacy," at the home. He died in 1889, and four years later his body was sent to Virginia.

Under tentative plans—if they are successful in making it a shrine—the Loyal Sons will charge admission, and in this way finance purchase of the Davis furniture and relics and pay for research work on his life and the causes of the war between the states.

Arm and Leg in 'Step'

Indicate a Normal Mind

BERKELEY, CALIF.—A series of experiments and studies carried on over a period of years have demonstrated that the involuntary swinging of arms while walking indicates a healthy mind.

This announcement has been made by the medical school of the University of California. The experiments were carried out under the direction of Dr. Robert Wartenberg, instructor of neurology, in an effort to ascertain the causes of various mental disturbances.

"Failure of the arm to synchronize with the movement of the opposite leg," he said, "may denote some disturbance in the brain center, long before involvements may be detected by other means."

Dr. Wartenberg was able to ascertain that normal, involuntary arm swinging which goes with walking and running means more than exuberant health and vigor, for its absence, he said, is definite indication of certain types of mental disease. When mental disturbances have been removed by operation or otherwise, he found, patients have shown a return to arm swinging.

Braves Erupting Volcano

To Stalk Bear in Alaska

SEATTLE, WASH.—Stalking Alaska's giant brown bear is dangerous enough; and when there's an active volcano nearby—that really adds up to thrills.

That is the adventure recounted by A. C. Gilbert, who returned from a hunting trip near Perryville, Alaska, where Mount Veniamin has been erupting intermittently for weeks.

Ashes fell so thickly in the vicinity of the volcano it was difficult to breathe, Gilbert said. But the ash, holding the tracks of the bear, made it easier to trail them.

Gilbert shot two bear measuring more than 10 feet.

FARM TOPICS

LIVE STOCK DISEASE CAN BE PREVENTED

Modern Methods Control the Spread of Epidemics.

Modern methods for the prevention and control of live stock diseases have been grouped under three main headings by animal pathologists of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. One method listed is the slaughter of sick animals and the thorough disinfection of the premises. This method has been employed successfully in the eradication of foot and mouth disease and of tuberculosis in cattle.

Vaccination of susceptible animals with suitable immunizing agents is the second method listed for the control and prevention of animal diseases. The object of such practice is to raise the resistance of susceptible animals to such a degree that exposure to the disease for which the vaccination is made will have no effect. Cholera in swine, black leg in cattle, distemper in dogs and sleeping sickness in horses are diseases that are controlled by vaccination. Immunizing horses against sleeping sickness is one of the newer developments in the field of vaccination and offers considerable promise as a specific preventive for this malady.

The third measure for the control and prevention of live stock diseases was listed as improved methods of live stock management with various state colleges of agriculture serving as a constant source of information on improved methods.

Such information is often of real value since a change in feeding practices or a change in management with respect to care of both young and mature stock may greatly reduce the incidence of certain diseases, it was explained. Pregnancy disease of ewes and acetone in cows are examples of diseases that are now largely preventable by the application of information that has accumulated relative to the nature of these disorders. When disease does appear in spite of approved management practices, live stock owners are advised to seek the services of competent veterinarians without delay.

Report Shows Shift

From Farm to City

Some of the reasons why this country has changed from a nation of farmers to a nation of city workers are given in the annual report of the Administrator, Agricultural Adjustment administration. The report points out that as late as 1870 more than half of the gainfully employed persons in the United States were in agriculture, but that by 1930 the proportion had fallen to a little over a fifth.

This change, says the report, was due to a variety of causes, underlying all of which have been advances in technology and invention. Such advances have almost invariably displaced farm labor and created industrial employment in the cities. Other causes listed include expansion of commercial and distributive services, as manufacturing and processing took precedence over cultivation of crops.

The report calls attention to the development of a division of labor in which farmers concentrated on raising foodstuffs and fibers while the city workers took over many of the other tasks formerly performed on self-sufficient farms. Another cause of the shift noted in the report has been the increase in transportation, communication, and governmental services which have become progressively more necessary with the growth of cities.

Agricultural News

Serious farm accidents are said to be on the increase. Tractors and power take-off machinery are said to be responsible for many of the accidents, the corn picker being particularly dangerous.

Rubber tires for farm equipment, first introduced in 1932, have made a phenomenal increase in use. Whereas there were rubber tires on 14 per cent of the tractors manufactured in 1935, it is estimated that 75 per cent of the tractors manufactured in 1939 will be equipped with rubber tires. Rubber tires on tractors have made from 20 to 25 per cent more horse power available at the drawbar. In addition, there is a saving of from 14 to 17 per cent in fuel.

According to the bureau of agricultural economics, 13 states now have statutes in effect providing for tax preference for homesteads.

Farmers have an interest in the government's "stamp plan," because, if successful, underprivileged people will be able to consume some of the farm surplus. How is the plan working thus far? Apparently all right, for in Rochester, the first "trial city," 11,000 families are purchasing $50,000 worth of orange stamps twice a month.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

by Thornton W. Burgess

PETER RABBIT HAS SOME STARTLING NEWS

LITTLE Mrs. Peter Rabbit, who used to be little Miss Fuzzytail, sat on the edge of the dear Old Brier Patch anxiously looking over toward the Green Forest. She was worried. There was no doubt about it, little Mrs. Peter was very much worried. Why didn't Peter come home? She did wish that he would be content to stay close by the dear Old Brier Patch. For her part she couldn't see why under the sun he wanted to go way over to the Green Forest. He was always having dreadful adventures and narrow escapes over there, yet in spite of all she could say he would persist in going there. She didn't feel easy in her mind one minute while he was out of her sight. To be sure, he always turned up all right, but she couldn't help feeling that some time his dreadful curiosity would get him into trouble that he couldn't get out of, and so every time he went to the Green Forest she was sure, absolutely sure, that she would never see him again.

"What is it, Peter? Do tell me quick! Have you had another narrow escape?"

Peter used to laugh at her and tell her that she was a foolish little dear, and that he was perfectly able to take care of himself. Then when he saw how worried she was he would promise to be very, very careful and never do anything rash or foolish. But he wouldn't promise not to go to the Green Forest. No, sir, Peter wouldn't promise that. You see, he has so many friends over there and there is always so much news to be gathered over there that he just couldn't keep away. Once or twice he had induced Mrs. Peter to go with him, but she had been frightened almost out of her skin every minute, for it seemed to her that there was danger lurking behind every tree and under every bush. It was all very well for Chatterer the Red Squirrel and Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel, who could jump from tree to tree, but she didn't think it a safe and proper place for a sensible rabbit, and she said so.

This particular morning she was unusually anxious. Peter had been gone all night. Usually he was home by the time Old Mother West Wind came down the Purple Hills and emptied her children, the Merry Little Breezes, out of her big bag to play all day on the Green Meadows, but this morning Old Mother West Wind had been a long time gone about her business and still no sign of Peter.

"Something has happened. I just know something has happened!" she wailed.

Oh, Peter, Peter, Peter Rabbit. Why will you be so heedless? Why will you take such dreadful risks. So foolish and so needless?

"Don't worry. Peter is smart enough to take care of himself," cried one of the Merry Little Breezes, who happened along just in time to overhear her. "He'll be home pretty soon. In fact, I think I see him coming now."

Mrs. Peter looked in the direction that the Merry Little Breeze was looking, and sure enough there was Peter. He was heading straight for the dear Old Brier Patch, and he was running as if he were trying to show how fast he could run. Mrs. Peter's heart gave a frightened thump. "It must be that Reddy or Granny Fox or Old Man Coyote is right at his heels," thought she, but look as hard as she would she could see nothing to make Peter run so.

In a few minutes he reached her side. His eyes were very wide, and it was plain to see that he was bursting with important news.

"What is it, Peter? Do tell me quick! Have you had another narrow escape?" gasped little Mrs. Peter.

Peter nodded while he panted for breath. "There's another stranger in the Green Forest—a terrible looking fellow without legs or head or tail, and he almost caught me!" panted Peter.

Lake County Pointer Club Will Release Pheasants

Approximately 600 pheasants raised this year by the Lake County Pointer and Setter club are being released by the club at various spots in the county, including Antioch, Grayslake, Volo and Libertyville.

The 130 members of the club are making every effort to keep pheasant hunting possible in the county, according to Bart Tyrrell, president.

The birds raised by the club are cared for and released entirely at the expense of club members, he points out, although once they are released they are free game for anyone with a gun. The pheasants are pruned among club members to be turned loose at spots they have secured in the county. The birds that are left are turned loose on club grounds in various spots in the county.

To Be Extradited

James Nelson Crockett, who has been employed near Antioch, is to be extradited to Girard, Kans., on a charge of wife and child abandonment, according to information given Lake County Sheriff Thomas Kennedy by Sheriff August Dorchy of Crawford county, Kans.

Mail Service Abroad Is Hampered by War

Although mail service to European countries has been affected by the outbreak of the war there, all available means will be employed by the United States postal service to see that mail reaches its destination, according to a bulletin received by Antioch Postmaster James Horan from Ambrose O'Connell, second assistant postmaster general at Washington, D. C.

Direct steamship service with Great Britain and France is less frequent than heretofore, Mr. O'Connell states. The absence of direct steamship facilities with Germany and Poland requires the forwarding of mails for those countries to other countries for onward transmission to destination. The steamship services to ports in the Orient, South Pacific, South and Central America have not been affected to date, says Mr. O'Connell.

to include materials, such as gravel; machinery and equipment, and supplies, such as gasoline, etc.

"Doesn't Know" Cost

Questioned this morning, Superintendent Lobdell in a statement to the Antioch News said that he did not have readily accessible the figures that would indicate the total cost per year to the county of maintenance and construction of roads.

Under the present wage scale, according to Lobdell, tractor engineers are paid from $1800 to $2,000 a year; truck drivers, from $1,200 to $1,300; and laborers from $825 to $1,000 a year.

Off Work—Still Pay!

While 28 men are said by Lobdell to be employed on the roads, he also stated that during the "off season" only about five are employed. However, in order to keep in "good standing" with the union, the men would still be obliged to pay dues during the season when they were laid off.

According to the "business agent" of the union, initiation fees would go to the Federation. Dues are supposed to accrue to the benefit of the worker. Neither the form nor the amount of the benefit was disclosed, however. No mention was made of the cost of administration.

Under the AFL agreement, common labor would be paid 85 cents an hour; truck drivers and operating engineers would be graded from 85 cents an hour for maintenance work to $1.62½ an hour for construction work.

Men Not Heard From

No comment from the men who would be "railroaded" into the union by the agreement without opportunity to voice their opinions had as yet been made this morning.

The supervisors' reason for their arbitrary action was said to be "to balk the CIO." Supervisor Charles B. Fitzgerald of Lake Forest is said to have stated, "If it had been the CIO, I would have voted no."

Numerous taxpayers throughout the county, with the prospect of being hit "in the pocketbook," have been speculating as to why it should be necessary for the men to join either group.

The letters were in an old rural mail box, having been deposited there by summer boarders.

Veteran of Navy Sees Both Poles

Is Happy at Accomplishing Lifetime Ambition.

PHILADELPHIA.—John Jacobson, 71-year-old retired navy veteran, sits in his chair at the Naval home content, for he has "achieved my lifelong ambition."

Jacobson said he had been all over the world, but did not feel content until he had reached both polar regions.

In 1900 he was a member of the Baldwin-Ziegler expedition that made an unsuccessful attempt to reach the North pole, and 27 years later he was with Admiral Richard E. Byrd in Little America.

Jake, as he is known to his shipmates, served in the navy from 1903 to 1925. He volunteered for the Byrd expedition in 1926 and was accepted. At the time he was 58 and one of the oldest members of the expedition.

He said that it was worth while visiting the pole if only to see the penguins.

"Say," he said, "you know those darn things are almost human, waddling along and gesturing much as humans do. We almost expected them to say 'Good morning.'"

The greatest moment of his life, he said, was when the admiral pinned the congressional medal on his uniform.

"I've received a good many medals during my lifetime in the navy, but that congressional medal is one they don't hand out very often."

Born at Tromsø, Norway, Jacobson came to the United States aboard a British bark at the age of 17. He enlisted in the navy in 1895 and served in Cuba during the Spanish-American war. Then he attempted to settle down, but failed and became a member of the Baldwin-Ziegler polar expedition.

Returning from the Arctic, he again enlisted in the navy, and served until 1925. He is one of the oldest men holding membership in American Legion.

Dust Bowl People Tell Stories of Wind's Speed

LAMAR, COLO.—Southern Colorado farmers, embittered by years of attempting to raise crops in this section of the dust bowl, nevertheless evidence humor as they explain improvised tests for measuring the velocity of the wind and intensity of the storms.

"I always depend on the goatskin method," one goatherd man of the soil said. "We wet a goatskin inside the house in the morning and hang it over the keyhole. If the four of us can't hold it there it's too darn windy to try to work in the fields."

His test, however, was disputed by several neighbors, supporters of the "log chain" test.

"We just hang a heavy log chain from the eaves of our ranch house," one of them explained. "If it stands straight out horizontally we know we'd better stay inside."

A Lamar pastor, too, has his dust-bowl standards. He said only one thing should prevent his flock from attending church.

"Stick your hand out," he directed. "Cup it for a few seconds, then bring it down to your side. If you can see where your hand was you're excused for staying home."

Boy Runs Away 6 Times; Says He Cannot Resist

NEW ORLEANS.—Mrs. O. S. Robertson is having trouble with her son again. He's got the wanderlust. It's a deep yearning, said O. S., aged nine. He can't overcome it. It has made him run away from home six times.

The last time O. S. came home, he was apologetic.

"I love you better than anybody," he said to his mother by way of breaking the ice.

"Then why do you run away, O. S.?" Mrs. Robertson asked.

"I don't know, mamma," O. S. said. A few days later he said he had the old feeling again. Mrs. Robertson only sighed and went about bending up a cake. Maybe that would hold him a while.

'round the Lakes

Holger Wangman and Eino Macklin tied for low scores with 83's in the annual championship golf tournament held by the City club of Waukegan at Our Country club Sunday.

The possibility of developing winter sports in the lake region is an interesting prospect for resort owners this year. With skating enormously increased in popularity through the Sonja Henie vogue, and sleigh-riding, skiing and tobogganing regaining their old-time favor, many persons have been quick to point out that the area around Antioch would, with its many lakes and its hillsides, slopes, and winding roads adjacent to fine highways, make an ideal winter resort section. It is easily accessible from large metropolitan centers, and has all facilities for accommodating outdoor fun-seeking crowds during week-ends.

It's always "off with the old love and on with the new" around the lakes. No sooner do the "summer people" end their vacation, than folks who know and appreciate the beauty of autumn in the country start coming out to the lakes Saturdays and Sundays for "gypsy outings."

And hunters start getting set for the pleasant and duck hunting seasons. And the fishermen say the fish are really "biting" these days . . . not knowing that Labor Day is past and the season "officially closed."

And there's still a flurry of late vacation-takers enjoying the comparative peace of a more "exclusive" season, when they can commune with nature undisturbed by the yellings of the neighbors' brats during the day or the noise of party-throwers in the cottage next door by night.

Thirty-five or 40 employees of the Western Electric company are planning to hold an outing at the Country House resort on Channel lake Saturday. On Monday evening the Antioch Lions club held a meeting at the resort.

Limburger's History
Limburg, the town for which Limburger cheese is named, was formerly the capital of the province of Limburg in Belgium. The lower town is named Dolhain and has textile and stove manufacturers. The upper town is situated upon a cliff and contains the ruins of the castle of Limburg, formerly the seat of the ruling family. There is also a noteworthy Gothic church. The population is about 4,500. Though Limburger cheese is named for Limburg, it is made to a large extent at Herve west of the town.

Here's How
Fred Stanford, 37, of Salt Lake City, returning from a long trip over dusty roads, grew thirsty. So he decided to quaff some beer. Just as he lifted the stein to his lips his jaw became dislocated. However, he gained some distinction from the event. It took Patrolman Clarence T. Smith, weight-lifting champion of the Salt Lake police, to close his mouth.

Non-Swimmer Saves

Child From Drowning

GARFIELD, WASH.—Although she was unable to swim, Vernadelle Harlan, 15, rescued five-year-old Susan Carmack from drowning in the Palouse river when a dam broke and water caught the child while wading.

Miss Harlan rushed into the stream, caught hold of the girl and dragged her to shore.

Decides to Sail,
Goes 30,000 Miles

Woman's Three-Year Voyage New Saga of Sea.

NEW YORK.—A barefoot woman skipper and a crew of six men came to port recently in a 60-foot ketch and completed a new saga of sailing, a story of a woman who never sailed before, but decided she liked it. So she sailed 30,000 miles and stayed out three years.

"I thought it would be nice to go for a trip," said Mrs. Marion Rice Hart, captain and owner of the ketch and sister of Mrs. P. Hal Sims, the bridge expert. "It just happened. We got around to the East Indies and I thought, 'We may as well go on.'"

The peacock hull of the steel ketch Vanora, built in 1902 on the lines of a fishing boat, and bought by Mrs. Hart from a British naval officer, was bleached to an uneven aqua shade by the sun and water.

Her square sail and topsail, jib and mizzen were weather marked from 1,040 days at sea. She'd been in 101 ports since Mrs. Hart—bored with her life as a sculptor and with her house, garden, and servants at Avignon, France—bought the ketch and started out from Portsmouth, England, on an August day in 1936.

When they reached a new port the captain and crew would inquire, "What new wars have there been?" They got a radio at one port, but it never worked; so in their leisure they trailed fishing lines or played rummy. Once they caught a shark and dined on shark meat. They seldom used the vessel's auxiliary motor.

Except for a cruise around the Greek Islands once before as a passenger on a 70 foot vessel, when the sails weren't used, Mrs. Hart was a neophyte sailor.

On completion of the three year cruise the members of her crew expressed admiration for her nautical ability.

Pet Skunk Is Efficient

As Collector of Bill

WILMINGTON, DEL.—A well-dressed man riding in an automobile driven by a chauffeur stopped at a gasoline station.

He offered a $50 bill in payment for $3.10 worth of gasoline and oil and ordered his chauffeur to drive off when the attendant said he didn't have change.

"Wait a minute, I can fix this," the attendant said. He went to his station, picked up his pet skunk, returned to the machine and thrust the skunk in the window.

"I want my money, and if you don't pay I'll drop this skunk in your lap," he said.

The chauffeur hurriedly paid the bill for his boss.

Big Truck Turns Over,
Field Mouse Is Blamed

GREEN BAY, WIS.—Field mice have been known to send elephants into hysterics, but a field mouse was blamed for causing a big motor truck turnover.

Clem Schuh, 33, while driving along the highway near here noticed a mouse scampering about in his car.

"Shoo," said Schuh. But as he looked down to locate the rodent his car ran over the center line and collided with the truck of Lloyd Preslawski, 22, causing it to leave the road and turn over.

Preslawski escaped injury. So did the mouse.

Short Circuit Caused by Static in Body of Woman

FAIRFIELD, CONN.—For a moment, Mrs. Charlotte Rasmussen thought she had been struck by lightning as she operated her switchboard at the local telephone exchange.

But a repairman explained it this way: Mrs. Rasmussen had been working at a typewriter during an electrical display preceding a thunderstorm, and stored up so much static in her body that when she returned to the switchboard she caused a short circuit. She felt 90 volts course up her arm and nearly toppled from her chair.

Nightly Thief Is Bared
As 'Bakerville Hound'

LYNN, MASS.—They've been dogged. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson decided to get up early and lie in wait for the thief who had on successive nights stolen: A blanket, a rug, rubbers and sneakers from the back hall.

The huge black dog that proved to be the robber ran with such speed that they could neither identify him nor rescue the slippers which he had purloined before being frightened away.

What to Do

BY PHYLLIS BELMONT

Will you kindly tell me if it is considered bad manners to put the elbows on the table during luncheon or dinner? I have always understood that elbows should never rest on the table, but today it seems to be a general habit with most persons.

Answer—Certain rules have come down to us and elbows off the table was one of them. But you are quite right that more and more we are deviating from this rule, and today it is no violation of good table manners to rest one or both of the elbows on the table. But elbows are permitted on the table only between courses and not when food is being conveyed to the mouth. Clapped hands should not at any time be placed on the table nor should the forearms rest on the table edge.

When the hands are not engaged they should rest quietly in the lap and not toy with the appointments on the table or make designs on the tablecloth.

Fleet Feet

A remarkable example of how nature adapts her children to their environment is found in the pronghorn, or pronghorn antelope. . . this animal is the only horned ruminant in North America that has but two hoofs on each foot. . . its ancestors had four hoofs to the foot, like the deer or the pig, but the back pair have been dropped. . . because, while the wider feet are very helpful in wading in treacherous swamps, they tend to lessen speed at foot. . . the antelope, living on hard, dry ground, had no use for mud-hoofs, but great need for speed in eluding its enemies. . . so nature gradually provided fast feet.

Barial Custom

The custom of burying the dead with their faces toward the east is symbolic of the hope of resurrection. From antiquity the dead have been buried with their feet and faces turned toward the region in which the future will be spent. Christians follow this custom of burying because that is the attitude of prayer. In Eusebius, the martyr explains to the pagan judge that the heavenly Jerusalem lay exactly in the east, at the rising place of the sun.

Volcanoes for Visitors

Stromboli, the volcano of the Italian Lipari Islands, provides visitors with virtually continuous activity, providing hourly or two-hourly eruptions, of enough violence to give tourists a few moments of thrill as the glowing lava is shot up from the core of the earth.

TATTOO MARKINGS
IDENTIFY CATTLEBreeding and Registration
Records Protected.

By DR. GEORGE E. TAYLOR

It is important that dairy animals be properly marked for identification purposes, otherwise there is certain to be confusion on breeding as well as registration records. Ear tattoos properly put in are most satisfactory identification marks, for they remain legible during the entire lifetime of the animal. These facts have been determined in studies at the New Jersey college of agriculture.

The American Jersey cattle club has required tattoo numbers for registration for a number of years, and beginning January 1, 1940, all unregistered Brown Swiss animals must be tattooed before the application or registration will be accepted. The objection to ear tags and number neck straps is that they are sometimes lost.

In order to insure satisfactory results the following simple rules should be considered:

The inside of the ear should be thoroughly cleaned of all dirt, wax and oil so that the tattoo ink will penetrate the punch marks. Soap and water may be used, provided the ear is wiped dry with a clean cloth. A clean cloth soaked in gasoline or alcohol is very effective.

In getting ready to tattoo, be sure the letters and numbers are placed in the marker right side up and in the correct order. First try the marker on a piece of cardboard to be sure.

Place the mark in the area inside of the ear that is free from hair. Avoid crossing any large veins as a safeguard against excessive hemorrhage that might cause the ink to wash out, resulting in failure.

Be sure that the needle points are sharp and fine so that they will penetrate the ear properly. By placing one or two thicknesses of cardboard between the punch and the outside of the ear you can insure proper penetration. Apply a liberal application of ink inside of the ear and work the ink into the small holes with the forefinger after the punch is made.

There are a number of satisfactory tattoo inks, pastes and oils on the market. The following formula may also be mixed by any druggist, using 20 grains of lamp black (dry), 50 cc grain alcohol, 50 cc glycerin and 50 cc of water.

A system of both letters and numbers are often used that will indicate the owner of the animal and also the date of birth as well as the sire.

First U. S. President

Used Diversification

There was a gentleman farmer of certain renown living on the banks of the Potomac who worried because his poorer neighbors always had too much tobacco on hand and not enough good food.

Their Negro hands were often not in the best of health. Records indicate that oftentimes taxes were paid partly in money and partly in tobacco, for lack of other medium.

The gentleman farmer, who tended to his own place carefully, and had definite success growing a variety of crops and only a lesser portion of tobacco, called a meeting of his better-fixed neighbor farmers. They all recognized the problem of one-crop farms and were glad of a leader to change the practice of farmers in that neighborhood.

The gentleman farmer was George Washington and he started Fairfax county, just outside of Washington, on a crop-variation system that has existed to this day. In all Fairfax there is not a commercial patch of tobacco.

Negroes have a few plants in the back yard to twist into "terbacker" for their own use.

Potato Storage Pits

Properly constructed pits provide cheap but satisfactory storage for potatoes throughout the storage season. The apuds should be placed in the pit as soon as harvested but should be given only a light covering at first, says A. E. Hutchins, vegetable specialist. Care must be taken to keep them dry and well ventilated, he cautions, and when the ground freezes the covering should be increased. Pits should be made in well-drained soils. A good size is four feet deep, six feet wide, and as long as needed. Pits of the above width and depth will hold about 100 bushels for each five feet of length.

Plucking Live Geese

The plucking of live geese to save the feathers is quite common practice in many country districts. It consists of the removing of the small feathers just before moulting time. One can tell by plucking at one of the geese whether the feathers are ready to come out. Never pluck feathers from a goose when they are moist on the end. Only the small feathers should be taken off the bird and the down should never be removed.

Old Dances to

Also in Vogue.

NEW YORK.—It's just plain swing now—but any minute it's going to be "swing—your partner!"

The old, familiar whoop of "Promenade" soon will be ringing and jitterbugs who thought grandpa couldn't take it are due for a rude and breathless awakening.

That was the warning sounded here by dance experts from all parts of America and Canada attending their annual convention. More than 350 disciples of Terpsichore compared notes while orchestras blared and revealed what dancing America can expect during the coming fall and winter seasons.

For, say they, dancing—like everything else including history and the movies—has whirled around its cycle and is back where the oldsters gave it up in favor of sitting out a few.
